The second men's World Open in 1977 was the first stand-alone event - the inaugural title the year before being added for the British Open winner. Originally scheduled to take place in Sydney, it was relocated to another Australian city - Adelaide. Played October 11 to 22 at the Brahma Lodge Squash Centre, Uniroyal sponsored the event with A$40,000 (£26,000) in prize money - the richest offered in the history of squash at that point. Last round here, full results at <https://www.squashinfo.com/events/1025-mens-world-open-1977>. On this day 20 years ago (3 Dec 2004), Thierry Lincou became the first Frenchman to win the World Open title when beat Lee Beachill (ENG) in the final in Doha. A week later Vanessa Atkinson became the first Dutchwoman to win the same title, beating Natalie Grinham (then Aus, but later a Dutch teammate in their Kuala Lumpur final). They were linked together here: PSA Squash Tour World Squash Federation @squash bond nederland FFSquash - Fédération Française de Squash Tecnifibre

The poster features the Tecnifibre logo at the top with the tagline 'GLOBAL THINKING'. Below it, a male player in a red shirt and white shorts is shown in a dynamic pose, swinging his racket. To his right, a female player in a white and blue outfit is also in action. The text 'World champions' is prominently displayed in white on a red background. Below this, the names 'Thierry LINCOU' and 'Vanessa ATKINSON' are listed. At the bottom, there are two circular icons: one for Thierry Lincou (France) and one for Vanessa Atkinson (Netherlands). The website 'www.tecnifibre.com' is at the bottom.

The three nations that have won the Women's World Team Championship (Australia, Egypt, England) have been the silver medalists too; with only two other nations becoming runners-up. New Zealand in 1985 (squad pic) and 1992, and Malaysia in 2014. Full details at <http://www.squashlibrary.info/womens-world-team....> World Squash Federation Squash New Zealand

NEW ZEALAND

SUSAN DEVROY
From the Reston Club in Auckland, aged 21.
Current World Ranking No. 3. Current N.Z. Ranking No. 2.
By virtue of her success in the 1984 and 1985 Open Cup South Islands she was understandably the world's top woman, but after it transpired that she had never been to New Zealand, she was eliminated after she did not play the final against a local player. Despite her career achievements in the world she was disappointed to be unable to represent New Zealand and to play in the final. She has since returned to New Zealand and is now a successful business woman.

DORINA GIBBANS
From the Reston Club in Auckland, aged 22.
Current World Ranking No. 21. Current N.Z. Ranking No. 9.
Dorina was a member of the N.Z. team at the 1985 World Championship and also competed as a player in 1985 in Canada. She is a former N.Z. State 10 and 11 and 12 National Champion. She was player of the year in 1984. She has since returned to New Zealand and is now a successful business woman.

ELIJAH GASKELL
From the Reston Club in Auckland but represents the Wellington.
Current N.Z. Ranking No. 4.
1980 N.Z. Open Cup Champion and 1980 N.Z. State Champion. The year's World Championship will be held in New Zealand and she has been invited to play in the final. She has since returned to New Zealand and is now a successful business woman.

NORMY BLACKWOOD
From the Reston Club in Auckland, aged 21.
Current World Ranking No. 4. Current N.Z. Ranking No. 3.

Ten years ago (Birmingham 2012) saw the first playing of the Men's Over 80 age category of the World Masters. England's Lance Kinder is the holder [pic, centre with, left, Edward Burlingame (USA, silver) and Stanley Fanaroff (RSA, Bronze)] winning in 2018 in Charlottesville, USA when aged 82. Also winner of the British Open Over 80 crown, he has agitated for the introduction of an Over 85 band – so far without success.

Starting squash aged 40 after boxing for the RAF, the late starter rose rapidly, and even a heart attack in his 60s did not slow him down. But an on-court fall means the 86 year old could not defend his title at the World Masters this week. Thirty years ago this week in 1992, the World Junior Men's was held in Hong Kong. Juha Raumolin, the Finnish top seed won the Individual title, ten days before his 19th birthday. He later reached the world top 20 but losing finalist Jonathon Power did even better, the Canadian (looking disconsolate!) reaching World number one and winning the World Open too. www.squashlibrary.info/mens-junior-worlds for full details. The Men's World Team Championship began in 1967 (full history at <https://www.squashlibrary.info/world-championships>), and until 1976 the biennial event was only contested by most of the World Federation initial Members (Australia, Canada, Egypt, Great Britain, India, New Zealand, Pakistan, South Africa and USA). The 1976 edition in England saw the first new entrants; Sweden from Europe and Kuwait from Asia. In 1979, in Australia, Nigeria debuted from Africa, while in 1987 back in England, Brazil became the first non-Founder entry from the PanAm region. (1967 winners Australia, and Kuwait 1976 squads pictured).

In September 1979 a world title was played for on a portable glass backwall court for the first time. It was when the Men's World Open that took place at the Etobicoke Olympium Sports Centre in the Etobicoke suburb of Toronto, Canada. The court had 44 integral Perstorp court parts and was built in less than three days. (The other court walls were made from textured laminate bonded onto panels).

The first World Doubles Championship took place in Hong Kong, China in December 1997, a year before squash debuted in the Commonwealth Games (and Doubles was a component). The venue was the Hong Kong Football Club, with play taking place on three moving side wall courts plus an International Doubles size glass court.

A feature of the event was that the Men's, Women's and Mixed Gold Medals were all won by different nations – Men's: Mark Cairns & Chris Walker (ENG), Women's: Philippa Beams & Leilani Joyce (NZL), Mixed: Liz Irving & Dan Jenson (AUS)

The first American city to host PSA World Men's Squash Championship was Bellevue, Washington State, a suburb of Seattle (host of the Women's World title in 1999) in November 2015. It became the third in North America after Toronto, Canada (1977, 79, 81) and Hamilton, Bermuda (2007), and before Chicago in 2019 and again this week. Winner in Bellevue was Frenchman Gregory Gaultier, who beat Omar Mosaad (EGY) 11-6, 11-7, 12-10 in the final. Squash - PSA World TourUS SQUASHSquash CanadaBermuda Squash Racquets Association.

Egypt is synonymous with event hosting, currently in El Gouna, but World Federation founder members Egypt had hoped to host their first world championship – the world Amateur Team & Individual – back in 1979. However, while finances were no problem the lack of facilities prevented it. The National Stadium courts (below) would come on stream two years later so the first of the current 13 World Championship stagings in Egypt was the Men's Teams in 1985. Uniquely, the Men's World Open and Team Championships 1987 involved chartering a train! The World Open was played in Birmingham, England, with the team Championship following in London.

Because of the numbers involved, rather than hiring a fleet of coaches to transport the team members and officials by coach, an InterCity train was arranged to take everybody from Birmingham to the newly opened Kensington Olympia station, close to the London Championship hotel.

The maximum number of national teams who have been able to play in a World Team Championship is 32, more entries meaning regional qualification is required. (Entries & results at <https://www.squashlibrary.info/world-championships>). The maximum has not been exceeded but The Men's has reached 32 on three occasions: 1995 – Cairo, Egypt, 1997 – Petaling Jaya, Malaysia and 2011 – Paderborn, Germany. (The first staging in Melbourne, Australia in 1967 featured six nations).

The Women's highest entry was 26 nations at the 2012 edition in Nimes, France; after also starting with six at the debut event in Birmingham, England in 1979.

P. NUMBERS OF TEAMS AND FORMATS

P1. A maximum of 32 MNFs will qualify to provide teams for a World Team Championship: 17 MNFs (including the Host) will qualify for places on the basis of their final placement in the preceding similar World Team Championship; the remaining 15 places will be allocated to the five WSF Regional Federations as follows:

- Africa 2 places
- Asia 4 Places
- Europe 4 Places
- Oceania 1 Place
- Pan-America 4 Places

These places will be determined by each Regional Federation either by results from existing Regional Team Championships played between teams of players representing the competing MNFs (preferably three-person teams) or, where this is inappropriate, by separate play-offs within the Region. If any Region fails to take up its quota, the WSF Championships Commission will decide on substitute(s).

When the Men's World Open was played for the second time at the Palais Des Sports in Toulouse, France on 6 – 11 November 1990, there were two showcourts used. And, interestingly, the two Puchaux courts had different colour floors – green and blue, as pictured.

The final was played on green, Pakistan's Jansher Khan beating Australian Chris Dittmar 15-8, 17-15, 13-15, 15-7 to take the third of his eight World Open titles.

When the World Federation Men's Team & Individual Championships were first played in 1967 a few founder member nations of the newly formed Federation offered to provide trophies, with the result that this was minuted (with Full history at <https://www.squashlibrary.info/mens-world-team-champions>):

'It was agreed that the prize of each trophy including a suitable box should not exceed £100; that one trophy should be made in India (Individual) and the other in Pakistan (Team); that the Chairman should decide on the design for the trophies.

The first Men's World Open was not played as a separate event - the World Federation agreed in 1975 that the winner of the 1976 British Open would be awarded the world title too. It was played at the Wembley Squash Centre in London, 31 Jan – 9 Feb 1976, and 2nd seed Australian Geoff Hunt beat 4th ranked Mohibullah Khan 7-9, 9-4, 8-10, 9-2, 9-2 in the final. The 130 minute match was the longest recorded at that point. Two other Pakistanis, Qamar Zaman & Gogi Alauddin were seeded 1 & 3 respectively. Hunt (pictured with the two trophies) went on to win the next three World Open titles too, beating Qamar Zaman in each final. When World Championships began the host nation chose which ball would be used. That ended after the Swedish hosts of the World Juniors in 1980 decided on the green 'general use' ball (1980 ad here), much to the shock of players & managers. Since then an 'adopted' World Championship Ball has been designated.

The Dunlop Black. The official SRA ball. Chosen for the World Open in Toronto, it's made its mark in more championships than any other ball in the world.

Although World Squash Championships have been held in all the five global squash regions, the first held in mainland China was the WSF Women's World Team event in 2018. I was held 11 – 16 September in the city of Dalian.

It took place at the Xigang Stadium, home of a squash centre with four permanent all-glass courts made by the Chinese CGG court company.

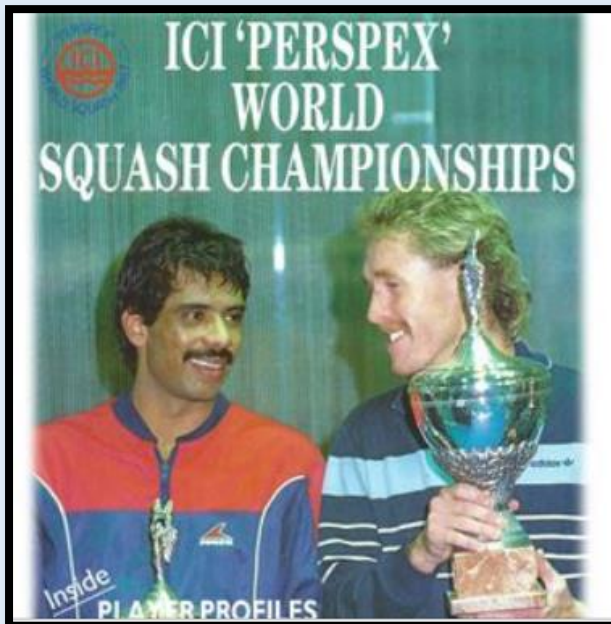

For the event a further two showcourts were erected in the sport hall – making it unique in using six glass showcourts for an event! World Squash Federation

The format of World Team Championships now mean that ordinarily a nation plays a maximum of seven ties. But go back to October 1987 where the entry for the Men's World Team Championship in England was eight more than the previous record, the format meant that 20 nations were given direct access into initial pools, joined by four qualifiers from the two preliminary pools of four teams. The winners went straight through but the second & third in the pools had a playoff tie.

After six team pools, the final stage was 1 – 8, 9 – 16 and 17 – 24 places. This meant that Norway, and Kuwait who succeeded in the preliminary pools after playoffs had played a total of 12 times. And only two players – Norway's Johan Abyholm (left) and Kuwaiti Tariq Al-Oweish, featured in all 12. For the record, Abyholm won 8, while Al-Oweish won 2.

11 November 1986 was a squash milestone – being the date when Ross Norman ended Jahangir Khan’s 5year 7month unbeaten spell in the final of the World Open at the Palais Des Sports in Toulouse, France.

But three years earlier was a significant time too. The summer of 1983 was when the New Zealander wrecked his knee landing awkwardly on the edge of the runway at the end of his first ever parachute jump. He reported it as ‘it felt like falling out of a two-storey building’. Having severed one ligament and displaced another it seemed unlikely that he would play again. He did, and the rest, as they say, is history!

For every World Open winner there is a final loser too. The record of number of finals reached without a win goes to two great players who were very unlucky not to have won a 'worlds'. Australian Chris Dittmar with five, losing four times to Jansher Khan, (87, 89 in pic, 90 & 92) and once to Jahangir Khan (84). Natalie Grinham lost three finals under the Australian flag Vanessa Atkinson (04), Nicol David (06) and sister Rachael (07); and one to David (09) as a Dutch player.

Here is a grid of the 20 years of this century's World Individual and Team Championships. It shows how the domination from the Land of the Nile has grown (Egyptian wins highlighted in yellow). While the Women's Open trophy was last to be brought to Egypt, overall no other country has figured since 2016. When Jonathon Power beat Peter Nicol 3-1 to win the World Open in Qatar in 1998 the Canadian became the first and so far only Pan-American man or women to win the World Championship. The region has done better in the Juniors though, with Amanda Sobhy (USA, 2010) and Diego Elias (Peru, 2014 & 2015) winning World Junior individual titles. The first Men's World Open took place in 1976, not separately but as a joint title with the British Open – as a month before the start the sponsorship had not been found to fund the prize money. At that point a chance meeting between Jonah Barrington and an executive from British automotive company Lucas Industries led to a last-minute rescue enabling Australian Hunt to beat Pakistani Mohibullah Khan in the final 7/9, 9/4, 8/10, 9/2, 9/2 to win the first of his three World Opens (after previously winning three World Amateur crowns).

Jansher Khan holds the record for Men's World Championship titles, with 8, two ahead of fellow Pakistani Jahangir Khan. His first was in 1987 in England, the last in his own country, in Karachi, in 1996. He only lost one final, to Jahangir in 1988 in Amsterdam, though his run was also interrupted in 1991 in Adelaide, Australia, when Rodney Martin beat Jahangir in the final, having beaten Jansher in the quarters. ATLAS KHAN

*Aged 21 years.
Atlas Khan is the younger brother of world ranked Moshabbah. He was a member of the Pakistan team that finished 2nd in the World Championships last year. Also he was runner-up in the Pakistan Amateur 1975. Atlas played on the Pakistan team that finished 2nd in the World Open Team Championships in 1976. He was a losing semi-finalist in the Pakistan Championships in 1977.*

DAULAT KHAN

*Aged 19 years.
When he was 10 years old he won the Under-12 Pakistan Championship. Two years later at the age of 12 he was a losing semi-finalist in their National Junior Championships (18 and under) and he was a semi-finalist in the 1976 Pakistan Amateur Championship.*

MAQSOOD AHMED

*Aged 20 years.
Maqsood Ahmed is considered by many to be Pakistan's no. 1 amateur. He is the younger brother of Muhammad Saleem. He was a member of the Pakistan team that finished 2nd in the World Open Team Championships in 1976. He also represented Pakistan in the 5th World Amateur Team Championships in London in 1976. In 1979 and 77 he won the Pakistan Amateur Championship and he recently upset Moshabbah in the finals of the Pakistan Open in 1977.*

With Egypt seeded one and hot favourites to retain the WSF Men's World Team Championship this month their path towards dominance may be relatively short, but is clear.

It started with the Junior Men's in 1994 when Egypt won their first ever team title led by Ahmed Barada & Omar Elborolossy. (All are biennial and this one has been won six times).

Juniors moved up and after the first Men's won on home ground in 1999, four of these titles have been won in all – but with England proving to be a stumbling block with three of their own during this period.

The same pattern was followed on the female side with the juniors coming first. After a first title in 1999 the girls have eight in total including the last six.

The Egyptian Women's team took their first title in 2008 and have four titles in all.

The Land of The Pharaohs currently hold all four major World Team titles.

So far, no less than 31 countries have hosted WSF World Team Championships Senior & Junior (so not including World Individuals, Masters, Doubles).

The leader-board of events:

New Zealand, 8

Australia, 7

Canada / Egypt / England, all 6

New Zealand is also joint-top the chart of most cities used, along with England & Canada, all 5:

- Canada (Calgary, Edmonton, Niagara, Toronto, Vancouver). First one in 1977, pictured.

- England (Birmingham, Brighton, Guernsey, London, Sheffield)

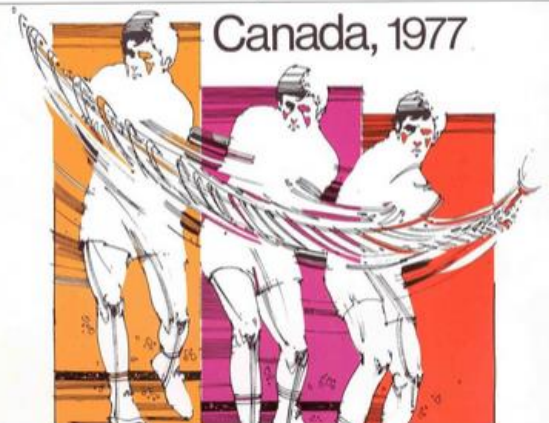

- New Zealand (Auckland, Christchurch, Hamilton, Palmerston North, Tauranga)

When it comes to the single city that has hosted most of these events, Cairo with 6 tops the list, followed by Chennai with 4. (But if other World / Regional events are added, The Squash Academy in Chennai would be the overall most prolific host city).
